Special Thanks to all who played a role in making this celebration possible: Indigo and Ivy Farm for flower arrangements; Jill England for the Hall's birthday cake; Savage neighbors for baking additional desserts; Norma Broadwater, Heather Salazar, Arnold and Lois Landvoigt, and Suzanne St. Onge for the 100-day countdown social media posts about the Hall and Savage yesterday and today (soon also available on the Baldwin Hall website); Tori Diersen for designing and burning commemorative coins and flooring keepsakes.

About Us: Carroll Baldwin Memorial Hall was built in 1921-22 to honor the life of Carroll Baldwin, a beloved president of Savage Mill. Constructed "for the welfare and happiness of the whole community," the Hall still functions as a community center today.

The Carroll Baldwin Memorial Institute (CBMI), steward of Carroll Baldwin Hall, encourages Savage residents of all faiths, races, ethnicities, genders, and sexual orientations to participate on the Board of Directors and Committees as well as in Hall activities.

Visit and follow us online for details on upcoming community events! Contact us via our website to inquire about renting the facility for your special occasion, or to contribute your talents or acquire new skills by volunteering with projects at the Hall.
